EPA hearing draws pipeline opponents

DUBLIN — Supporters of the Livermore-Amador Valley Water Management Agency's proposed effluent disposal pipeline might have said the "no - growthers" were out in force at the Environmental Protection Agency hearing at Shannon Park Community Center Tuesday night.

But Peter Perez of EPA District IX said the EPA is not a growth - determing agency. "Population," he said, "is a local issue."

Perez said the hearing was held to get local residents' opinions on the soundness of the sewage disposal project.

Nineteen people in the 70-person audience came forward to present their views on the project.

Most of the speakers opposed the project.

James Day, a 16-year resident of the valley, said any increase in sewage disposal capacity would encourage growth in the valley.

He quoted the environmental impact statement as saying it was a mandated goal of the EPA to protect and preserve air quality.

"An increase in sewage capacity could lead indirectly to a degradation of the air quality in the valley, due to increased automotive traffic," Day said.

Georgia Jacka urged the EPA "not to solve the water quality problem at the expense of air quality." She agreed that the pipeline would allow for an increase in growth which would be detrimental to the health of valley residents.

David Burton of Dublin said the people were being "ramrodded" into an inflexible situation, claiming current technology is not adequate to predict future sewage requirements.

"This is an expensive super sewer, and it's money you will never get back," Burton warned.

Edward L. Lee, a valley resident since 1956, said the EPA should take another look at tertiary treatment of sewage, a process whereby raw sewage is transformed into drinking water.

Michael Wallach represented the San Ramon Homeowners Association. He said the pipeline carrying capacity should be limited to 12 million gallons per day. (Current flow projections indicate a 15 mgd pipeline capacity will be requested by LAVWA.)

"A 12 mgd capacity would be

Decision pending on June ballot tax increase

Amador Valley Joint High School District trustees will decide within the next three weeks whether to go for a tax revenue increase measure on the June ballot.

Trustees are confronted with either trimming the present study budget by about $275,000, trying to maintain the status quo or going to the voters in June.

Superintendent Bruce Newlin presented the alternatives to trustees at their regular meeting Tuesday. However, all have been aware of the prospect since well before Christmas.

The actual decision will likely be made at the conclusion of a budget review, scheduled for Tuesday, Jan. 27 at 7:30 p.m. at the District Educational Center in Pleasanton.

The Amador district's next regular meeting has been moved up to Feb. 3. Last date for notifying the county of an intention to have an issue placed on the June ballot is 120 days prior to the election or Feb. 9.

The 1976 - 77 study budget, as presented to trustees Tuesday night, amounts to includes $8,496,834, which a deficit financing figure of $477,000. The deficit amount for the 1975-76 adjusted budget is $266,637.

The averaged daily attendance for 1976-77 is estimated to be 5,317, up 176 from the present ADA. Base revenue is estimated to increase by 4.58 per cent from $1,255 25 per ADA to $1,312.76 per ADA.

Estimated expenditures for 1976-77 include career and experience incremental movement of both certificated and classified personnel on the salary schedule, an adjustment of 14 per cent for health benefits and $22 for dental program, and a State Teachers' Retirement System contribution increase from 5.6 per cent to 6.4 per cent — as mandated by the Education Code.

The study budget lists $4.7 million as going to

State fair proposal dormant

For a while last fall the Alameda County Fairgrounds was actively being considered as an alternate site for the annual State Fair.

The idea, as originally proposed by then-Assemblyman Ken Cory two years ago, was to dispose of the costly Cal Expo site in Sacramento and alternate the State Fair between the fairgrounds in Pleasanton and the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds in Pomona.

Cal Expo purportedly has a yearly bond payment on the property of over $1 million.

The proposal, as studied by a project director for the Cal Expo Evaluation Committee, was to hold the State Fair concurrently with the county fairs in Alameda and Los Angeles counties.

Lee Hall, secretary-manager of the Alameda County Fair Association, spent two days in August meeting with state officials on the idea.

In other business before the County Fair Association directors Tuesday, a sum of $2,500 was approved for support of a parade, with the proviso it is held on the first day of the Fair (Sunday, June 27) and maintains the quality and flavor of previous years.

The parade will be conducted under the auspices of the Pleasanton Bicentennial Festival Committee in cooperation with the Jaycees, City of Pleasanton and Chamber of Commerce.

A statement in yesterday's edition of The Times saying the Fair Association paid just $4,196.72 toward last year's parade was incorrect.

The Fair Association, in actuality, paid the entire $5,200 it cost to put on the parade.

The Fair Association will handle publicity matters in a different fashion this year, since the contract of Len Harris and Associates has not been renewed.

A prayer answered

The tragic story of Luciano Guttierez, the 20-year-old Mexican who was killed in Sunol Dec. 17 in a freak auto accident, and who has not yet been buried, may end with less anguish for his family back in Mexico, thanks to the concern of many Valley residents. Here, a friend of the dead youth, Matilde Diaz, shows a picture to Frances Diaz, a director of the Latin organization. Contributions began coming to the Guttierez Fund (c/o Citizens Savings, 300 Main St., Pleasanton), as early as yesterday morning. (Times photo by Pat Kennedy)

Foster mum on Herlihy's charges

PLEASANTON — Postmaster Mark Foster doesn't want to get involved in newspaper print discussions about how to run the post office, he told The Times yesterday.

Foster was referring to Councilman William Herlihy's allegations, reported in the The Times Wednesday, that service is poor at the local post office.

Herlihy alleged that the post office's counter was understaffed during the big rush for three and 13 cent stamps recently. He also claimed that a letter mailed from a local bank never reached the intended recipient in Pleasanton.

Foster said he would prefer to discuss specific charges with Herlihy if he will call or visit.

Foster said that every post office in the country had long lines as postal rates increased Dec. 31.

"There was a 200 to 300 percent increase in our lobby traffic. We turned off one machine because we were out of one-cent stamps in coils, but the large machine was always operating. We sold 250,000 three cent stamps, about the same as the last time the postal rates went up, when we sold 200,000 two-cent stamps in the initial rush," said Foster. The figures were for both Pleasanton and Dublin, he noted.

Foster heads 90 employees in the two post offices. Only three clerks are assigned to the window in each post office, although a fourth was added for the first week after the postal rate increase.

Herlihy's charge, quoted in the press, that two out of four employees were "out on a coffee break" at 8:30 a.m. instead of tending the counter is highly unlikely, said Foster. Clerks don't come to work until 8:25 a.m., he said.

Herlihy said Monday that he thought there was a "management problem" at the post office. "It is serious and it ought to be investigated," he said. He promised to meet as soon as possible with Foster to "learn what is wrong with the local system and how it can be corrected."

City Manager Bill Edgar came to Foster's defense, saying that the postal employees' union has more effect on the situtation than Foster.

Mayor Ed Kinney commented: "Here's a service we pay for and we are not getting our dollars' worth."

Murphy talks to jury

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — Supervisor John Murphy of Pleasanton spent some 90 minutes before the Alameda County Grand Jury yesterday testifying about the near purchase of 53 acres for the East County Government Center.

Murphy appeared voluntarily after fellow supervisor Tom Bates wrote the jury requesting an investigation of circumstances leading up to the deal.

The move to purchase the hill top site stalled last December when Murphy abstained from the final vote because of a "possible conflict of interest." Without Murphy's vote, the board stood at a 2-2 tie.

Murphy would not comment on his testimony, and, in fact, denied the night before that he would be appearing Wednesday.

"Anything you want will have to come from the Grand Jury," he said yesterday.

Tuesday night he said he would not dabble in "Bates' tactics," a reference to Murphy's charges the Oakland supervisor played the Grand Jury letter to the press.

Grand Jury Forewoman Pat Nesbitt referred all inquiries to deputy district attorney Stacey Walthall, who would not elaborate on Murphy's testimony.

Bates told the Grand Jury he'd "done as much as I can do with limited powers" and asked the jury to "issue subpoenas and take testimony under oath."

Bates claims Murphy introduced the site to consultants Ratcliff, Slama and Cadwalder, took the supervisors to view it and made the motion both for the option and the issuance of a warrant prefatory to the actual purchase.

Murphy admits part ownership of a lot and building at the foot of the hill, but says he has no other interests in adjoining land.

Bates and supervisor Charles Santana of Hayward opposed the $468,432 purchase, while board chairman Fred Cooper and Joseph Bort were in favor of it.

In his letter, Bates also questioned the "quality of (county) staff work available to the Board of Supervisors."

Council okays commercial zoning

PLEASANTON — The corner of Valley Avenue and Santa Rita Road is turning into a "mini -regional center" and that's why Councilman Robert Philcox voted against another commercial building there Monday.

Philcox was the lone negative vote as the council approved Ted Myers' request for a retail commercial building on 2.5 acres next to the El Rancho Motel.

Philcox told The Times yesterday that the vicinity of Santa Rita Road and Valley Avenue has "14 or 15 acres" of commercial zoning now. Philcox would like to see commercial zoning go to other neighborhoods instead of accumulate at the Amador Center - Valley Plaza area.

The council voted 4-0 (Joyce LeClaire absent) to approve two other commercial zonings, both in the vicinity of Hopyard Avenue and Valley Avenue. One approval was for Dean Morrison's commercial zoning on two - thirds of an acre and the other was for Spivak Properties' commercial and public institutional zoning on five acres.

LASO offers help to valley Latins needing direction

Voy al Centro.

In Mexico it means: I'm going downtown.

In the Valley it means: I'm headed for the new "LASO Centro" at Second and M Streets, Livermore.

LASO stands for "Latin American Services Organization," and the bilingual title symbolizes what the brand new group is all about: Helping local people of Latin origins to do well in American life, fit into the society of their chosen country, yet retain the rich heritage of their native Mexico or Colombia or other Latin land.

LASO Centro opened yesterday, a little bit of Latin America in a whitewashed building in downtown Livermore.

Spanish greetings flew, bright woven cloths draped a bare wall and an old sofa, a map of Mexico hung next to a Times newspaper clipping about the death of a young Mexican ranch hand in Sunol.

And, among all the hot tropical colors of the decorations hung a giant red, white and blue Bennington flag — reminding visitors that LASO's biggest project this spring will be organizing a two-day Mexican extravaganza at the Paramount Theatre in Oakland to welcome the DeAnza Expedition as part of the Bicentennial celebrations.

Presiding over the informal gathering was Jose Cortez, Lab physicist and dynamic worker for the improvement of life for his Latin friends.

Cortez was flanked by Richard Flores, Kaiser chemist and member of many committees in Livermore; and by Lino Moreno, a Livermore mathematician.

The three were doing the talking, but also on hand were other members of the 13-person board of directors. They represented a strikingly diverse cross-section of local Latin society: school aides, a secretary, housewives, an engineer, a credit counselor, a personnel administrator.

Board members include Filemon Dominguez, Manuel Hinojosa, Pauline Huerta, Maggie Lopez, Manuel Prado, Victoriano Rodriguez, Betty Mae Moreno, Manuel and Rosie Zaragoza and Frances Diaz.

LASO Centro pulls together a number of Latin groups who have been working for years in the Valley to preserve their culture and to give new immigrants a helping hand. Fully 10 or 11 per cent of Valley residents are of Latin origins, Cortez estimates — which would make LASO an organization serving about 10,000 people in the Valley alone.

LASO has been set up as an "umbrella organization" affiliated with the Latin Organization for Betterment (which is currently paying the Centro's $150-a-month rent and utilities bill); El Grupo Guadalupano; Project Southwest (a group devoted to helping promising Latin-American students go to college) and the Charro Association, a Mexican sports group.

In addition, LASO is planning to sponsor a neighborhood Latin group at Komandorski Village in Pleasanton, the low-rent housing area where at least half the 200 residents have Spanish names.

Broadly speaking, a Spanish surname is the yardstick LASO members use for determining how many Latin Americans live in the area. But they concede that some of the old-time Mexican settlers who now have land certificated salaries and $1.1 million to classified salaries.

In other business Tuesday, Neil Sweeney, assistant superintendent for instruction, reported on compliance with Title I tenets in regards the program at Dublin High School, and commended Don Seaver, assistant principal, for his work with the Title I program.

A seismic study pertaining to the Amador Valley High library was reviewed and a go-ahead given for construction.

"Closeup", in which students in grades 10 and 11 spend a week in the Nation's Capital, will be participated in for the second straight year by students from Amador Valley, Dublin, Foothill and Valley. Four students and four teachers to be selected will receive financial assistance.

Trustees learned that 90 16 and 17-year olds took the California High School Proficiency Examination last month, 43 of them being from Amador district schools. Those who passed the four-hour long test will learn of the results about Feb. 1. Those passing will be eligible to leave school immediately, upon the signature of a parent They will receive a "Certificate of Proficiency," legally equivalent to a high school diploma.

Trustees also authorized bids for football equipment and auto shop equipment at Foothill High School, accepted turf and sprinklers and the gymnasium at Foothill, and voted support of AB 2009, concerned with funds for State Teachers Retirement System.

consistent with moderate growth rate in the entire valley," Wallach said.

Livermore resident Gloria Taylor said no public agency should contemplate encouraging more growth until "our air quality problems are solved."

Livermore LAVWA delegate and city councilman Donald G. Miller, speaking as a private citizen, summarized the views of many of the speakers.

"There is no rationale for increasing population when health standards call for a valley population of half its current size," said Miller. "Since we can't ship people out, we must act to limit population to the current number."

Miller rejected arguments that the pipline must be cost-effective "Engineering economics is no longer the overriding consideration," he said.

Miller said no agency would allow an increase in population if there were no land or sewer capacity to accommodate it.

"The valley has no more clean air room. Don't add population to use up non-existent clean air," Miller said.

Only one speaker spoke strongly in favor of the project. William Leonard, presenting the Alameda Association of Building Industries of Northern California, said a small-sized pipline would put a ceiling on the population of the valley "in perpetuity."

He urged the EPA to consider the secondary impact on the housing industry. He said air quality was a regional — not valley — problem, and called the section on air quality in the EIS "inaccurate."

The EPA has extended the deadline for submission of written comments on the proposal until Monday, Jan. 26.

Testimony received Tuesday night and all written opinions will be considered before the environmental acceptability of the project finally is determined.

LASO offers help and social status may not be interested in working with the relative newcomers. At the same time, the Latin origins of others may be submerged beneath an Anglo name gained through marriage.

LASO is applying for $195,500 in federal funds through the ACAP (Associated Community Action Program) organization in Fremont. Currently, the ambitious program is being supported through private donations and fund-raisers, but directors hope the funding will come through so they can hire personnel.

They need volunteers to keep the center open, at least in the afternoons, so people can drop in for information or just for a chat. The volunteer need not speak Spanish, "although it would help," director Flores admits.

They also badly need donations of furniture and office equipment, especially files and a good typewriter.

They're hoping someone will volunteer to teach English to a group of adults who have already asked for lessons. "They feel lost in the big Livermore school district adult education classes, and since everybody in the classes is at a different level of competency, they don't feel they learn much," Flores explains of that program.

If the money comes through, some of those positions may be salaried. LASO will also hire an executive director, secretary, youth services counselor, teaching assistant, employment services coordinator and social worker.

But, whether or not they get funded, LASO's leaders are planning to go ahead with as many of their plans as possible.

They want to build up a library of books on their heritage, provide pamphlets for youth on scholarship and job opportunities and continue the work they have started in Project Southwest.

They'll also keep in touch with another new ethnic group, the Indian Center, which just opened on North Livermore Avenue, as well as the local Filipino-American Organization.

"LASO Centro" welcomes visitors, whether they bring an offer of help or just a friendly "Buenas Dias." The center is in Rooms 6-7-8 at 161 South M St., corner of Second Street in Livermore. The telephone number is 443-1620 and if nobody's there the Cortez home may be reached at 447-3520.

Hours at the Centro will be irregular until enough volunteers are found to keep it open all day, or at least all afternoon and early evening.

But, with the enthusiasm and joy that fairly bubbles over at the Centro, that won't be long.

The spokesman declined to state how the plan was uncovered or how many inmates she helped. Laird is currently being held on $20,000 bail in the Santa Rita Jail.

Youthful Borba heads county 4-H program

By REINA WHITNEY

Although the 4-H program influenced his life to the point that he graduated with a degree in animal science from Fresno State University, Dan Borba little dreamed that someday he would be assuming the role as head of this dynamic organization for Alameda County.

The 26-year-old bachelor took over Alameda County's 4-H Youth Program leadership when Gladys L. Boone resigned Dec. 31, after 29 years as head of this International organization.

Originally, 4-H reached only children of ranchers or farmers in the rural agricultural areas. But now, if Dan Borba has any success with his proposed new program, it will reach more of the urban areas. Since he will head the Alameda County youth program, he will specifically concentrate on getting the people in Oakland more involved in what 4-H has to offer the children of the city. Most of the 2100 members in Alameda County are in the Tri-valley area of Livermore, Pleasanton and Dublin.

Dan's responsibility will primarily be to train his staff on new cecruiting techniques and see that orientation and training are provided new leaders. Dan says many more leaders are needed to oversee a membership that has grown to include some 40 clubs throughout Alameda County.

An agricultural background for men and a home economic background for women is no longer needed as a prerequisite for leadership with 4-H. An interest in children and their welfare is all that's needed. The leaders head co-ed groups in a varied program of projects that may include food preparation, homemaking chores such as sewing or cooking, leather craft, electricity, woodworking and automotive repair. Boys and girls alike may choose the project in which they would like to participate. The groups meet bi-monthly for projects and once-a-month for a general business and social meeting which includes all the clubs in a given area.

The 4-H program is a cooperative of the University of California's agricultural extension program and is available to all children between the ages of 9 to 19 without regard to race, color or national origin. According to Mr. Borba, it originated in 1920 and it now extends to every county in California and reaches, not only throughout the United States, but into seventy foreign countries as well.

It offers its local members a camping program at the 4-H Las Posadas Camp in the St. Helena Hills where 450 to 600 members attend annually. It even maintains a foreign exchange for members to go to live with other 4-H families overseas for as long as a six month period.

According to outgoing director, Mrs. Boone, the greatest worth of 4-H lies in its efforts to teach the members to help others. She is proudest of her work in trying to develop the leadership training of young people so they could become leaders themselves and help the younger members of the organization. Mrs. Boone's philosophy was that it was "more important to share and cooperate in a group and be helpful to others than to be proficient in a manual skill." "Two heads are always better than one," she claimed as her motto.

She greatly extolls her replacement, Dan Borba, her assistant as a 4-H youth advisor, as having unusual ability, enthusiasm and drive. "That combined," says Mrs. Boone, "spells success."

Dan Borba hopes to achieve that success with greater communication between the staff and the leaders assigning a staff person, Margaret McGowan, to be available every Wednesday at the Franklin Savings and Loan office in Pleasanton between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. A toll free number to contact the central office has also been made available (846-4457, Ext. 6427).

Gladys L. Boone's 29 years with 4-H will be remembered Jan. 31 at a special dinner held in her honor at the Hyatt House, 455 Hegenberger Rd., Oakland, starting at 6:30 p.m. The $7 reservation may be sent to Leontine Halverson, 4323 Valley Ave., Pleasanton. by Jan. 15.

Mrs. Boone says it's been "fun to see children grow up to be leaders and now their own children are in 4-H." Some of these "children" who were greatly influenced by 4-H and Mrs. Boone and who hope to be present at her testimonial dinner, are Ron Halverson, Pleasanton nurseryman Realtor who was the first youth sent on the International Youth Exchange; Realtor and Builder Victor Lund, Shirley and Bob Casterson, early 4-H'ers and community leaders. Groceryman Jack Fiorio was not only a member as a young boy, but became a leader and a father of members and leaders. Ron Halverson's mother who was one of the Valley's first leaders over twenty years ago will be there as well as Dorothy and Joe Silva in 4-H for at least 18 years.

All still try to live up to the 4-H motto "To make the best better" and will never forget their pledge of head, heart, hands and help: "I pledge my head to clear thinking, my heart to greater loyalty, my hands to larger service and my help to better living for my club, community and my country."

Comedy opens in Walnut Creek

'Matchmaker!'

By CAROL BARCKLAY

"More than any other playwright, Thornton Wilder knows about joy," comments Jay Paul Hornbacher, director of the Civic Arts Repertory Company's production of Wilder's witty comedy "The Matchmaker."

"The characters in Wilder's plays, particularly in 'The Matchmaker,' have a sense of joy, a sense of yearning, a longing to be part of something, to live their lives fully, to pack in as much adventure as can be crammed in during a lifetime.

"Sometimes in 'The Matchmaker,' the characters become wholly open to the mood of the moment. Joy walks in, hits them in the face, and off they walk arm in arm down the street."

The second production to be presented during the company's winter drama season, "The Matchmaker" opens tonight at 8:30 in the Walnut Creek Civic Arts Theater.

Following the opening performance, the Civic Arts Association Theater Guild will host a festive champagne reception for members of the audience, cast and technical crew. There will be no extra charge for first nighters who wish to attend the celebration.

Additional performances of the fanciful farce will be staged at 8:30 p.m. on Jan. 5-17, 22-24 and Feb. 12-14. One matinee is scheduled on Jan. 18 at 2:30 p.m.

Adult tickets at $3.50 and youth or senior tickets at $2.50 are available at the theater ticket office, 1641 Locust St. For reservations, call 939-0355.

Set in the early 1880s, the nostalgic spoof follows the wily shenanigans of Dolly Levi, professional matchmaker and widow on the trail of a new wealthy husband.

Her strategy to snare Yonkers merchant Horace Vandergelder runs a hilarious course of improbable coincidences and outlandish situations, finally ending in not one, but three engagements.

Written in 1954, "The Matchmaker" is based on one of Wilder's earlier plays, "The Merchant of Yonkers," a 1937 piece, which suffered a chilly reception at the box office.

Before rewriting the script, Wilder completed several plays and novels; among them, two Pulitzer prize - winning dramas: "Our Town," first presented in 1938, and "The Skin of Our Teeth," which opened in 1943.

The second time around, Wilder strengthened the character of Dolly and brought her to the center of the action. Under Tyrone Guthrie's direction, "The Matchmaker" enjoyed great success, including a long Broadway run, an extensive tour, a film version and productions in many other countries.

"I have three heroes in the theatrical realm," remarks Hornbacher. "Anton Chekhov, Thornton Wilder and Tyrone Guthrie. Chekhov and Wilder are my favorite playwrights. In comparison with the directors whose work I have seen. Guthrie is the greatest.

"He is a master of comic business," Hornbacher adds. "Basically, Guthrie's direction brought 'The Matchmaker' to life."

Following the play's successful Broadway run, the script provided the inspiration for composer Jerry Herman and librettist Michael Stewart's hit musical of 1964, "Hello, Dolly!"

"'The Matchmaker' is Wilder's most lighthearted, most positive work," says the director. "On the face of it, the comedy has the least to say of any of his plays.

"In 'The Matchmaker' there is less philosophizing than in 'Our Town' or in 'The Skin of Our Teeth.' 'The Matchmaker' appears to be less 'heady' because the plot is so improbable. In this play, Wilder writes simply in the extremity of joy.

"You don't have to look for a moral; it's all there in the closing speech: 'We all hope that in your lives you have just the right amount of sitting quietly at home, and just the right amount of ... adventure.'

"This is Wilder's credo. It's not just get out and live to the fullest all the time, and it's not a defense of retiring to the contemplative life. It's an argument for both the outer person and the inner person to find fulfillment.

"Wilder speaks for 'common humanity.' I can think of no other capsule phrase that better describes his point of view," Hornbacher adds.

"In 'The Matchmaker,' he is concerned not only with the individual plight of each character, but also with the fate of each person in his common relationship to the whole grand scope of humanity."

Hornbacher, who also serves as the company's producer, has directed many Civic Arts productions, including last year's "Twelfth Night" and "Under Mild Wood."

Lynne Arden of Pleasant Hill stars in the role of the wily Dolly Levi. Glenn Warden of Lafayette blusters about as the eligible widower Horace Vandergelder.

Rhio Ossola and Kevin Mulvey of Walnut Creek appear as adventurous clerks, and Steen Williams and Pam Ossola of Walnut Creek are cast as their merry dinner dates.

Supporting roles are played by Marian Eggleson, Gordon Irving and Barbara Larsen of Walnut Creek; Carl Daddio, Mike DeMarco, Jack DeRieux and Mary Gerber of Concord; John Cody of Danville, and Fred Wagner and Rhonda Wenger of Oakland.

In addition to "The Matchmaker," the company's winter drama season will feature Paul Sills' fanciful collage of classic children's tales "Story Theatre" and James Goldman's engrossing drama "The Lion in Winter."

The final production of the Repertory 76 bill, George S. Kaufman and George Gershwin's rousing musical comedy "Of Thee I Sing," will be presented next summer from July 9 through Aug. 14.

Repertory 76 season ticket subscriptions including "The Matchmaker," "The Lion in Winter" and "Of Thee I Sing" cost $7.50 and are also available at the theater ticket office.

Fundraiser set for SF symphony

One of the most widely read "books" in the Bay Area these days is the 56-page catalogue promoting the 1976 Marathon II fund-raiser of the San Francisco Symphony. Secheduled for Jan. 15 through 18, Marathon II will be broadcast from 7 a.m. till midnight over KQED-FM, 88.5 Radio, each of the four days.

Variety is the keynote of the catalogue. Reading it is like shopping in a gigantic department store with a travel bureau and theater ticket agency included. There's something for everyone in your home, including the pets — and for the house itself.

You may choose clothes, cooking classes, or car repairs; flowers, food, or photo supplies; hairstylings, hardware, or Hawaii — for a week's vacation; paint — or paintings, pet grooming, or piano tuning; tea cozies, tennis shoes, or theater tickets.

You can have a 25-foot rainbow dragon kite — and then take the lesson to learn how to fly it. You can go up in the air yourself with a flight around the Bay in a private plane ... or in the Goodyear blimp!

If you're aquatically inclined, you can sail around the Bay, dine aboard a tugboat - houseboat in Sausalito, or glide around Lake Tahoe in a classic cruiser with San Francisco Symphony Association President and Mrs. Lawrence Metcalf.

You can have your pick of vacation retreats — Pajaro Dunes, Tahoe — North or South Shore, Palm Springs, Baja, Calistoga, Carmel, Monterey, or weekends in VIP suites in San Francisco, Oakland, and San Diego.

Sports enthusiasts will find tennis matches, golf games, or salmon fishing theirs for the choosing — and a donation to the Symphony. Anyone who has eight friends who play baseball can captain a team to challenge the San Francisco Symphony softball team, which claims international victories.

Californians' fondness for wine is acknowledged with 28 selections, including a fifth of 1959 Chateau Lynch Bages and a fifth of 1959 de la Roche (Thorin).

Over 100 restaurants are offering dinner for two or more, with prices ranging from $15 for 4 to $180 for six. If you prefer dining at home, there are gift certificates for such basics as meat, turkey, and fish as well as gourmet delicacies and fantastic pastries, plus a pound of coffee a month for a year.

Many of the members of the San Francisco Symphony are attuned to Marathon II and are offering premiums. Although many of them are music oriented, others range from playing tennis with Maestro Seiji Ozawa to a close-up magic show by violinist Ervin Mautner. Concertmaster Stuart Canin will perform a brilliant virtuoso recital, and a chamber orchestra of Symphony musicians will present a private, or public, concert.

Premium prices, in general, range from $15 to $10,000, and there's a grab bag of 21 items for $10 or less.

Merchants, business firms, and professional people from throughout the Greater Bay Area have contributed premiums to Marathon II. More than 60 premiums have been donated by Contra Costa residents and groups.

Among them are a one-hour flying lesson from Warren Boggess of Pacific States Aviation; a painting by Robert Wayne Bush of Concord; an etching of the Liberty Bell by Sara Wallach of Lafayette; dinner for two at the Captain Cook restaurant; a $30 rental certificate from the Valley Art Gallery in Walnut Creek; 10 private organ lessons from Chaney's Baldwin Pianos and Organs in Walnut Creek.

Smorga Bobs offers wide range of foods

Chicken Chow Mein. Hungarian Meatballs. Crispy Fried Chicken. Beef Enchiladas. Italian Spaghetti. Any of these sound tempting to you? Smorga Bob's, in the Concord Park and Shop Center, offers these and many more hot entrees, fruit salads, green salads, jello salads — and the list goes on.

Norman and Eloise Fong are managers and partners in the growing Smorga Bob's chain. They came to the Concord store with a background in the restaurant business dating back to 1966.

"Robert White, with the aid of his partner Richard Wheeler, opened up the first Smorga Bob's in Woodland, California in 1966," explained Fong.

To date there are seven Smorga Bob's in operation and expansion is expected to continue.

The success of Smorga Bob's, according to management, is due to a spirit of cooperation between employes and management. Also important is the respect earned by the company in its efforts to satisfy public needs.

"The Sunday Brunch is a different concept we're trying. Only two of our stores are doing it now, but it has been successful. Even during the Raider game playoff we had a substantial crowd in for our brunch," said Fond.

Smorga Bob's also does catering for any size group. Any of their wide variety of foods can be catered for weddings, parties or other gatherings. Also Smorga Bob's offers food to go.

With such a hugh selection of dishes to choose from which seems the most popular?

"Many people come Fridays for our fresh cracked crab. It is always very popular. Of course our free sundae with every meal is a special treat," answered Fong.

Artist's exhibit begins run

An exhibit of paintings by Lafayette artist Helen Ann Licht opens today and continues through Feb. 5 at the Walnut Creek Library, 1644 North Broadway.

A graduate of Stanford University, Mrs. Licht is currently working on a second degree in art and art history at UC Berkeley. Her colorful and often surrealistic paintings show influence of Persian miniatures and Oriental art.

In February one of Mrs. Licht's paintings will be in the first show sponsored by the Center for the Visual Arts at the Syntex Gallery, Stanford. Her work has appeared in the Lucien Labaudt Gallery in San Francisco, the San Francisco Art Festival, the Oakland Art Association Annual 1974 and 1975, the Valley Art Gallery in Walnut Creek and the Oakland Museum.

The exhibit is arranged by Jeanne Buckingham of the Valley Art Gallery, sponsor of the monthly displays at the Walnut Creek Library. Hours are 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

NICE WEATHER may have been a help in bringing out good crowds for the first PITA Shoot of the season at the Livermore-Pleasanton Rod and Gun Club Jan. 11. Just looking at the scores turned in tells that the competition was tough. Top shooters are in the following:

16 Yds — Class AA Frank Lopes, score 100; Class A Eric Poletti, 99; Class B Gary Bonetti, 98; Class C Richard Makaiwi 99; Class D Cheryl Dayton 96.

A humdinger of a shoot-off for the winner of Class A required more than a hundred rounds before Eric finally won out over Bill Brotherton. Eric and Bill are both fantastic shooters!

Handicap winner was Frank Silva with a score of 98, and the runner up was Num Fong, also with a 98 Frank came out top shooter in the shoot-off.

Doubles, Class A — Dan Bonillas Score 50; Class B — Dorwin Reis 47; Class C — Monte Maniz 48.

Monte is one of our local shooters, and is top notch.

Ladies 16 yds — Handicap — Arlene Mungle scores of 98 and 96, combined 194.

Junior 16 yds — Handicap — Mark Conner, scores of 95 and 98, combined 193.

Sub-Junior 16 yds — Handicap — David Gehrke, scores of 88 and 92, combined 180.

Veteran 16 yds — Handicap — Gordon Hull, scores of 99 and 95, combined 194.

Gordon Hull (of Oregon), a PITA director, and Doctor Sweet (Ducks Unlimited) of the local club, were having a great time renewing their friendship and talking of past meetings.

The next PITA shoot at the local club will be held Feb. 15 and 16. Hope to see you there. Everyone has a good time at these meets.

A RUNNING DEER shoot (plus iron chicken) and off-hand rifle, and also a ham and bacon shoot will be held at the Livermore - Pleasanton Rod and Gun Club Jan. 18.

Bring plenty of hulls for rifle, pistol, and shotgun. You might also want to bring some new alibis, just in case any are needed!

DO YOU HAVE a neat model 86 Winchester or a nice Marlin in 45:90 caliber? Next week I will give information on re-loading for this excellent caliber.

THE PHIL DIAS say the reason duck hunting has been unsuccessful in the Los Banos area is that the ducks and geese stay up at the San Luis Reservoir. Then when their built-in timer tells them that shooting time is over, they begin to congregate at their feeding grounds, at Los Banos, of course.

PETE RODELLA says he took in all his decoys (about 500) last weekend as he feels the season has ended.

This weekend will be the close of the season, however, for those of you who are willing to try your luck one more time.

KESTERSON had an average bird-take of 3.1 last weekend, which isn't too bad; and it's close enough to our area to be reached easily.

Top average take was Colusa with a nice 4.3 Gray Lodge and Sutter recorded an average of 3.8 each; Joice Island and Merced each had 3.7. Los Banos and Kern were 3 0.

Maybe these averages will help you decide where you'd like to hunt those elusive fowl this weekend of the season's close. Good luck!

Pokes top Granada

Pre - season puffery counted for nothing on the scoreboard last night as Granada High entered Livermore's overflowing snakepit and emerged bitten 66-48 in EBAL basketball.

The highly-regarded Matadors dropped even with the Cowboys at 2-1 still in the title race but no longer considered invincible.

Granada came into the game undefeated and favored to win the EBAL championship. The Matadors responded to the pressurized build-up by opening with their worst quarter of the season.

After eight minutes Livermore led 17-1.

A number of factors contributed to Granada's collupse.

Injuries, were part of the problem. Joe Wujek sat out most of the first quarter because of a week-old ankle injury. Lee Brennan played but was slowed by a hamstring pull. Both men played before the half ended but neither proved a factor prior to intermission.

As if the health problems were not enough for the Matadors, their offense went flat against a pesky 1-3-1 zone.

Livermore forced the Matadors to shoot from the suberbs, and Granada responded bY missing all 11 of its shots in the first quarter.

Livermore, meanwhile hit better than 50 percent in that same stretch to forge its lopsided margin.

The Cowboys held at the same clip for the remainder of the half and went into the lockerroom on top, 32-20.

Granada concentrated much of its defense on Livermore's Ted Wood, who finished the half with seven points Wood still managed to give the Matadors fits, however. He dished off three fine assists and saddled Granada's Scott Campbell with his third foul four minutes into the second quarter.

Tim Jenkins led Livermore's first half assult with 10 points. Center Curt Groth scored six and played evenly with Brennan under the basket. The injured Granada pivotman blocked three Groth shots in the ooening half but scored just one point. Groth managed to outfight his taller opponent on the boards.

With Wujek missing for most of the first-quarter Livermore drove inside with good success. Groth, Jenkins, and Mark McCreary all worked in for easy buckets.

Their success forced Wujek into the game six minutes into the first quarter. The junior was obviously hampered, however by his tender ankle.

Campbell found the range for nine second-quarter points to pull the Matadors within distance. Their chances appeared good when Wood fell in a heap on a drive to the basket but after a brief rest on the bench he came back to finish the half.

Wolves club Cal

Unlikely as it may have seen at the begining of the season, the San Ramon Wolves have a winning streak.

After winning their first EBAL game in more than a year Friday, the Wolves ran away from California, 59-33, last night in Danville.

Jim Hogeboom led all scorers with 20 points while San Ramon teammate Kevin Merrick added 12.

Byron Steward had nine points and 11 rebounds to lead Cal, despite sitting out the fourth quarter.

The first half was not tailor-made for the fan who likes a lot of scoring. It took nearly a minute and half for either team to score.

With 6.35 to go in the first quarter Cal's Craig Cline broke the ice with a lay-up off an assist from Larry Walters.

That marked the Grizzlies' only lead of the opening two quarters as San Ramon outscored them 12-2 for the rest of the quarter.

The Wolf attack was not abated in the second quarter.

Hogeboom scored 14 points and had two assists in the first half while Fritz Venker added seven, including five straight in the second quarter.

The Wolves' biggest lead of the half came with 56 seconds to go when Hogeboom canned a foul-line jumper, making it 29-13. A Rick Yackley free-throw finalized the first-half scoring.

Walters paced Cal's merger offense with five points and an early assist.

Granada girls breeze

Granada High thwarted an aggressive Livermore attack and held on to defeat the visiting Cowgirls, 40-29 in EBAL basketball Tuesday night.

Coming into the contest with identical 2-0 records, the clubs battled to a 16-16 tie at halftime. But Granada's tough defense held Livermore to a mere two points in the third period. Meanwhile, the Matadors poured in 14 points.

Livermore was plagued by foul trouble throughout the game and lost starters Peggy Baker and Patty Shirley early in the fourth quarter.

"It was a tough game," said Granada coach Dave Ramm. "The score does not tell the story. It was our rebounding and defense that gave us the edge."

The Matadors hauled down 43 rebounds with Sheryl Common grabbing 10, and Lyn Bousliman and Grace Autio, nine each.

Common was high scorer for the winners with 16 points. Cheryl Wood added 14, and Bousliman chipped in eight.

Livermore's Lynnette White exploded with seven points in the fourth quarter and finished with 11 for the game. Teammate Ann Wondolowski scored six points.

In junior varsity action, Livermore trounced Granada, 34-9.

Elsewhere, Monte Vista rallied in the third quarter, scoring 24 points to Amador's eight, to hand the Dons a 65-44 defeat.

Laura Fumagalli scored 18 points for the Mustangs while Linda Silva added 16.

Amador's talented freshman center, Jane Kuhns, poured in 19 points.

In the junior varsity game, Amador defeated Monte Vista, 33-12.

Dublin, scoring 21 points to Foothill's seven in the first half, overpowered the Falcons, 52-19. The win boosted Dublin's record to 3-0.

Gael center Joanne Callender pumped in 25 points, while Linda Finco added 10.

Foothill's Thela Lewis and Chris Echavia scored six and five points respectively.

The Falcons lost their first junior varsity game of the season, falling to Dublin, 33-22.

Behind the hot hands of Mary Jo Melko, San Ramon downed California, 39-24. Melko scored 20 points, while Lisa Stamp and Debbie Lloyd added seven and six.

The Wolf junior varsity nipped California in overtime, 23-21.

Pleasanton swimmer in Pacific All-Star meet

Andy Bota highlights Pleasanton Swim Club's revitalization efforts Sunday when he competes in the 50-yard freestyle at the AAU Pacific Association All-Star meet at San Francisco State University.

Young Andy is the first Pleasanton swimmer ever to qualify for the important event involving 120 of California's finest age-group competitors.

He will compete in the 11-12 year old class after qualifying last weekend with a 26.236 time in a Santa Rosa AA meet. The top two finishers in every event were selected from that event to compete on the Pacific Association's all-star team this weekend. Bota will swim for the North squad against the best from the South.

It will be a dual-meet affair beginning at noon Sunday, and lasting about three hours.

Andy has a good chance at winning his race after breaking a personal and Pleasanton Swim Club record at Santa Rosa.

"He made a few mistakes," said coach Doug Reyes, "but we've been working on those this week and he's got a chance to win. We've got to get better turns out of him, and he's got to take a few less breaths. There's not much difference in time in a 50-yard race," Reyes pointed out; "so if we correct those mistakes, he can win."

Bota's appearance Sunday will be the highwater mark for Reyes who is attempting to pump new life into the Pleasanton team. Since taking over he has expanded the swimming season, and also launched the Thunderbirds on their first over-night trip for a meet in three years.

"We hope Andy will set a precedent for Pleasanton swimmers in the all-star meet," Reyes said yesterday.

"He's got a tremendous amount of ability, and he's been getting better all along. He just matured awful fast in that race last weekend," Reyes said.

Bota will jump to the 13-year-old class in March. But in his final months as a 12-year-old he's making an assault on Pleasanton records. Besides the 50-free mark, Bota established a new Thunderbirds record for the 100 free last weekend with a 59.3 time.

At a Palo Alto AA meet Bota also finished third in the 500 free, and second in the 100 breaststroke.

Teammate Bob Peters broke the club record for the 500 free among 13- and 14-year-olds with a 5:14.13 at Santa Rosa.

Pleasanton's Deanna Schneider earned an AA time at the Palo Alto competition with a 36.4 clocking in the 50 breast for 11 and 12-year-olds. She also took a sixth in the 100 breast.

Roby Schenault swam the 50 breast in 36.2.

Gaels top Foothill

In what could be labeled as the "battle of the beatens" Dublin put a mark up on the win column by smashing hapless Foothill. 80-39 last night at the losers' gym.

Foothill, breaking into a 1-3-1 zone defense, showed more holes than a dime store rain coat fell quickly behind 8-0. The early lspse was enough to cause Falcon coach Tom Hansen to call a timeout at 5.20 of the first period.

Whatever Hansen's plan was, it proved fruitless as Dublin extended its margin to 14-2. The lone first-quarter Falcon field goal, not coming until 4.30 into the game.

Foothill's pourous zone continued to allow Dublin sharpshooters Kory Porter and Ed LaPerle shots in within the 10-15 foot range. Moving into the second stanza Rich Barnes picked up Dublin's pace with a soft jump shot to give the Gaels a 20-point advantage. However, that shot was matched by a pair of Steve Sperber free throws, and a Rick Rosenbach field goal. Foothill then quickly got two mote field goals by Keith Suer and Kevin Henderson and it looked as if they were finally putting together some sort of offensive attack.

Whatever hopes the Foothill crowd had quickly vanished as Dublin's potent offense poured in eight straight points which led to their dominating 40-15 halftime lead.

The halftime statistics showed Dublin's Laperale leading all socers scorers with 10 points, followed by teammates Jim Boulware and Porter who each had six Sperber led all Foothill scorers with 11 points four points.

Valley's dancing duo had the world at its feet

The Kobelt Sisters launched their dancing career as a team of talented teenagers (top photo). They toured three Russian cities with the national company of 'My Fair Lady' as pioneers in the cultural exchange program at the height of the Cold War. The company (bottom photo) viewed the Czar's diamond-studded carriage at the Kremlin, wearing soft shoes to protect the beautiful parquet floors.

By JEAN McKENNA

Tumbling and tapping at age four, Klaudia and Karla Kobelt sommersaulted onto the professional stage as talented teenagers, and have been basking in the limelight of success ever since. Natural ability and a rare charm have carried them across the country and around the world.

Residents of Pleasanton, they come to the fairgrounds for a benefit performance Jan. 31 sponsored by the Livermore firefighters.

A half-formed desire to make dancing their life work was crystallized when the two Berkeley high school students were cast with Mary Martin in the musical "Annie Get Your Gun" which enjoyed long runs in San Francisco and Los Angeles, and became a television special broadcast nationally.

The inevitable letdown which followed that early success was short-lived. Karla attended U.C. Berkeley on scholarship for a term while Klaudia finished high school, but their education ever afterward was to be their unique experiences on the stage and on the road.

The sisters toured the United States and Canada for over a year with the national company of "My Fair Lady" and then — the opportunity of a lifetime! The production was chosen to play in three Russian cities as part of the new cultural exchange with the United States and the Soviet Union.

It was the height of the Cold War in the early Sixties and the U-2 spy plane had just been shot down over Russia, but the entertainers were enthusiastically received. Although it may have been difficult to grasp the story of the English girl with a Cockney accent in "My Fair Lady," the Russian audience greatly enjoyed the music and the dance.

"They would clap in unison and shout 'More, more!,' until we repeated a dance immediately, right in the middle of the play!" Klaudia remembers excitedly. "It was exhausting." She explains that there is nothing in Russia to compare with the American musical theater. They know either the classical dance such as the ballet, or traditional folk dance.

A cover story in Life Magazine chronicled the company's visit to the Kremlin and attendance at the celebrated May Day parade in Moscow's Red Square. The Kobelt sisters were specially honored when they were chosen to represent the company in entertaining Russian artists and entertainers throughout the tour. United Press International reported from Russian that the two-girl show "had the Russians gasping."

Soon after their return, the Kobelt Sisters created a polished, professional act and successfully auditioned for a job at a Tokoyo nightclub. The precocious young girls — at 19 and 21 years of age — turned their two-month stay into a 14-month tour of the Orient. Bangkok, Calcutta, Karachi, Manila, Malaya, Singapore, Hongkong. They met a demanding schedule of three performances per night, with hardly a single day off for months, and went sightseeing in between!

The experience paid off in opening a satisfying career on the professional entertainment circuit in the United States. Critics across the country describe their act with adjectives like "refreshing," "bright," "vital," "original," and "breath-taking."

And when the traveling "wore thin," according to Klaudia, the sisters settled in Pleasanton and began to share their experience with students at the San Ramon Dance Academy.

Occasional stage appearances make a stimulating contrast to the satisfaction of teaching, and the Kobelt Sisters frequently entertain at benefit shows, such as the family variety show planned by the Livermore firefighters. Others on the showbill with them are all "seasoned entertainers and great" according to the testimony of the Kobelt Sisters who have worked with most of them.

The curtain rises at 8 p.m., Saturday, Jan. 31 at the exhibition hall at the Pleasanton Fairgrounds. Doors will open at 7 p.m., and tickets are available by calling 455-6450 or contacting a firefighter.

NO BUSINESS LIKE SHOW BUSINESS

Klaudia and Karla Kobelt, as shown in a recent picture, hop on the professional entertainment circuit occasionally as a stimulating contrast to their teaching careers at San Ramon.

Mixed-media program set

Stan Wacholz of San Jose will conduct a painting demonstration employing both watercolors and acrylics at the Jan. 19 meeting of the Pleasanton Art League.

The public is welcome to the 7:30 p.m. meeting at the Pleasanton Cultural Arts Center on Black Avenue.

An accomplished jeweler, ceramicist and sculptor as well, Wacholz's favorite subjects are those taken from rural California and Nevada. His paintings hang at the Gold Rush Gallery at Saratoga, Gallery Detours at Carmel and the Shadow Box Gallery at Capitola.

Walchoz is a member of the Society of Western Artists and an associate of the American Watercolor Society.

Outstanding photos of 1975 to be judged by camera club

The public is invited to view outstanding photographs taken in 1975 by members of the Livermore Camera Club when the club convenes Monday, Jan. 19 at the Carnegie Building, lower level.

Photos previously entered in 1975 club competition will be judged at the 7:30 p.m. meeting by David Latrobe, an active member and past officer of N4C (Northern California Council of Camera Clubs). For more information about entry rules or club membership, contact Stan Isakson at 846-6851.

Artist of the month

A new feature at the Livermore Art Association Gallery will be a special exhibit of works by an 'artist-of-the-month' in addition to the display of multi-media fine arts and crafts. Pat Childers of Livermore is the first artist to be featured at the gallery from Jan. 15 to Feb. 15. Her exhibit includes watercolors and oils ranging from realism to linear expressionism. Pat will appear at the gallery Sunday, Jan. 18 from noon to 4 p.m. An active member and officer of the LAA for five years, Pat was recently chairman of the Festival '75 art exhibit at Livermore. Mother of four and a 12-year employe at Sandia Laboratories, Pat says she paints for personal enjoyment and appreciates the encouragement the LAA offers novices as well as professionals. The LAA Gallery at the Carnegie Building is open Thursday through Saturday, 11:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The whole family can enjoy the antics of well-known 'Peanuts' characters Charlie Brown, Snoopy and Lucy in a musical production which comes to the Presbyterian Church in Livermore Saturday, Jan. 24. Tickets must be purchased in advance.

Charlie Brown at Livermore

"You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown," a musical based on Charles Schultz's "Peanuts" comic strip, comes to the First Presbyterian Church in Livermore Saturday, Jan. 24. The production features the Woodminster Theater company of Oakland.

The 8 p.m. show is sponsored by the Presbyterian Mariners as a church benefit. Tickets at $3.50 for adults and $2.50 for children are available in advance only at the Presbyterian Church office, or by calling Madge McDonald at 447-5886. Dessert at the fellowship hall after the performance is included.

Music will be provided by an orchestra which includes Livermore Musicians Jim Liptak, Nan Davies, Pam Kahn, Brian McFann, Abigal and Polly Grover.

Does the community have, or deserve, sufficient "say" on what types of feature movie films are shown in the area?

This question has raged unabated over the years, becoming more and more visible in the Sixties as Hollywood broke through "barriers" of yesteryear — albeit in tandem with a more liberal and openminded society.

The question really answers itself.

The motion picture studios are not so out of touch with reality that they would continue dwelling on themes that the public would not pay their hard-earned money to see. And both the chain and independent theater operator would scream mightily if any community group exerted pressure to close down or discourage attendance at any particular showing.

The third part of this question deals with the mobility of today's society. If the theater-bound family or individual doesn't like what's playing locally, the car or bus is readily available (the latter just five days a week, though) to provide open sesame to the metropolitan area.

While this writer may not be the best example, we can call up our own theater-going preferences to underscore the "mobility" point. Though a resident of the valley for quite some time, we have seen only one offering at a local theater. That happened to be the very forgettable George Scott debacle entitled, "The Hospital." Almost all of our movie viewing is done either in San Francisco or Westwood - Beverly Hills - Hollywood, during our three or four trips a year to the southland metropolis.

But, we are begging the original question which really deals with community control.

We would be opposed to any such control.

A community such as Livermore, Pleasanton, San Ramon or Dublin must place its faith in the judgement of the operators of the respective movie houses. While this may be misplaced faith (as in the case of the chain operating the two movie houses in downtown Hayward), the question is still basically one of dollars and sense. Operators are not going to play films that will turn off local audiences. A movie house operation is tremendously competitive if for no other reason than the manager knows full well his regular customers can easily go elsewhere if the top rated new releases or "oldies" are not shown consistently.

From all indications, operators of movie houses here in the valley are not exactly going broke. Though the offerings out of Hollywood (in this writer's viewpoint) are no better than a year or five years ago, enough entertaining ones are coming forth to get people out of the house.

We include in this category such new releases as "One Flew Over The Cuckoo's Nest," "The Sunshine Boys," "The Magic Flute," (now playing in Berkeley and in S.F.), and "Gifts of an Eagle," which recently played in Dublin.

I would also include here "Nashville" and "Bite the Bullet."

MARQUEE— The Utah Symphony, conducted by Maurice Abravanel, will play the Chabot College auditorium in Hayward this Saturday. The symphony was organized in 1945 and has played such concert halls as London's Royal Festival Hall and Carnegie Hall. All seats are $2 and are available through the Pleasanton Recreation Department, Livermore's Odyssey Box Office, or by calling 455-5300 ... Pleasanton Playhouse's "Don't Drink The Water" is now in rehearsal at the Veterans Memorial Building with play dates slated for March at the Sunol Valley Country Club.

For Thursday, Jan. 15, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're prone to be more considerate of those with whom you have no emotional ties. You'll eliminate problems if you're aware of this around loved ones.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) There's no reason you shouldn't have fun today, but be careful not to live it up at the cost of your responsibilities.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your material prospects are bright today, providing you don't bank on iffy situations. Exercise prudent judgment.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't let self-doubts gain the upper hand today. If you think you're a winner, you are. Act like one.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You have a tendency today to paint a picture which is true, but not necessarily complete. Get all the facts out in the open.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) In your business dealings today, don't let all the water come out of your well. Make sure that associates kick in their shares.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Muster allies today for your position. They'll be available if you make a proper approach, and show them gratitude.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Have faith in your ideas today, but don't delude yourself into thinking they'll be approved by all. However, the majority will be in your corner.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Be realistic in dealing with friends in business situations today. You're not the selfish type, but don't give away the store, either.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you have to make an important decision today, think of its effect on the family. Then you'll choose the right path.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Want things done today? Get the ball rolling. It's fine if others want to help, but you can't depend on anyone.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Social functions you plan today should be restricted to those you know are compatible. Satisfying obligations could shake up the party.

Jan. 15, 1976

You're apt to form some very valuable alliances this coming year. One will be close to the family. It could be influential in a sphere in which you are interested.

Opening lead — J ♣

By Oswald & James Jacoby

North's three-club call was the Jacoby transfer and South dutifully bid three diamonds. When North continued to three notrump, South knew that his partner was interested in a slam. Without slam interest North would simply have bid three notrump directly.

South's four clubs and North's four hearts were cue bids. South was tempted to bid six notrump, but was wise enough to settle for six diamonds.

There was very little to the play. South won the club lead in dummy, knocked out the ace of diamonds and claimed — since he could discard one of dummy's spades on a high club.

Six notrump would fall one trick short. South could only come to 11 tricks with the spade finesse off.

Also, if North had played six diamonds a spade lead would have cooked his goose since clubs divided 5-2 and the spade finesse was off.

Ask the Jacobys

A Texas reader wants to know if you must continue to game after a forcing two bid and a bust response.

The answer is that the rules of bridge allow you to pass any time it is your turn to bid. However, if you do pass short of game and make game, be ready to explain why to your partner.

Picking up pieces

Laura Bevilacqua's 1975 Monza was one of three cars sustaining major damage in an accident at First and Neal Streets Monday. Police said Frank Allan Fuentes' 1969 Corvette was crossing First and collided with Bevilacqua's car, which then spun around and struck Joseph Waldemar Brubaker Jr.'s Ford. No one was injured in the accident. Police recommended Fuentes be issued a citation for crossing a roadway under unsafe conditions. Times photo by Ron Rodriguez

Oakland school chief

Ruth Love to address trustees

Dr. Ruth B. Love, superintendent of the Oakland Unified School District, will speak to the Alameda County School Boards Association at their meeting Thursday at Francesco's Restaurant on Hegenberger Road in Oakland.

Dr. Love's subject will be, "The 60s to the 80s: Anxiety, Advocacy and Achivement."

The dinner meeting commences at 7 p.m.

A brief musical program will be presented by the Castleers of Castlemont High School, Oakland, under the direction of Phillip Reeder.

A career which began with teaching in an Oakland classroom and which recently brought Dr. Love to Oakland as superintendent has taken her through a wide variety of assignments; among them, Fulbright exchange teacher, Cheshire, England; project director, Operation Crossroads, Ghana, West Africa; consultant, pupil personnel services, and chief, Bureau of Compensatory Education Program Development, California State Department of Education; and consultant, ESEA, Title I program, and director, Right to Read Effort, U.S. Office of Education.

The meeting will be conducted by David S. Tucker, Jr., president of the Alameda County School Boards Association and vice-president of the board of education of the Oakland Unified School District.

Manuel Prado, of Livermore Unified, and Mrs. Dorothy S. Hudgins, of the South County Community College District, are members of the association's board of directors.

Author to appear in San Ramon

SAN RAMON — Virgie Jones, author of "Remembering Alamo and Other Things Along the Way," will appear in person at the San Ramon Valley Library to discuss her book on Jan. 20 at 7:30 p.m. "Remembering Alamo..." is a personalized history of Alamo and the San Ramon Valley compiled from the lives of pioneers, members of the family, friends, neighbors, public officials and others. It is considered the first social history of the area.

The book has been endorsed by the San Ramon Valley Historical Society, the county branch of the American Revolution Bicentennial Committee and the board of supervisors. It contains more than 200 pages of text and 143 illustrations including maps and documents.

The library, located at 555 South Hartz Ave. in Danville, is open from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday-Thursday and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

Snow and ski trip scheduled

PLEASANTON — The recreation department will sponsor a snow and ski trip to Leland Meadows and Dodge Ridge Jan. 25.

Skiing at Dodge Ridge will cost $15 and tobogganing at Leland Meadows will cost $10.50. Fees will pay for an all-day lift ticket for skiing and toboggan equipment for tobogganing and transportation.

Signups at the recreation department office, 200 Bernal Ave., are on a first-come, first-serve basis and the deadline is Jan. 22. Information is available at the West Wind Youth Center, 846-2240 or the recreation department office.

Patrol busy in December

PLEASANTON — Chief Patrol Agent Herbert E. Walsh announced yesterday that during December, Border Patrol Agents of the Livermore Sector arrested 4,093 illegal aliens in the 49 counties from Kern County to the Oregon border.

Walsh said this number was 208 less than were arrested the month prior but 1,224 more than were arrested in December, 1974.

Of the total arrested, 79 per cent or 3,217 were employed and earning wages of up to $7 per hour. Fifteen were receiving welfare or other public assistance.

Agents arrested a total of 61,422 illegal aliens in 1975, compared to 46,717 in 1974, an increase of 14,705. Walsh said this illustrates the continuing large influx of illegal aliens into Northern California.

Agents of the Livermore station, who cover the counties of Alameda, northern Santa Clara, Contra Costa, Marin, Napa, Sonoma, Lake, Mendocino, Trinity, Humboldt and Del Norte arrested 162 illegal aliens in December. Of that number, 127 or 78 per cent were employed at the time of arrest.

BICENTENNIAL FACTS

The Americans' self congratulation for meeting and withstanding the British armies at Lexington and Concord, and Bunker Hill ignored the poor planning, overconfidence and atrociously bad luck that dogged the British on April 19 and June 17, 1775. The Americans gave themselves all the credit, laying special emphasis in their marksmanship as well as their patriotic zeal. In reality, only one minuteman in 15 hit a redcoat on April 19, The World Almanac reports.

Gravel firm clears first corporate building hurdle

Alameda County Bureau

HAYWARD — One of the valley's four gravel quarry firms crossed its first hurdle on the way to building corporate offices on quarry lands between Pleasanton and Livermore.

The Alameda County Planning Commission Monday granted Rhodes - Jamieson a petition to reclassify five acres of a 177.8 acre parcel from agricultural lands to light industry. Final approval must come from the county board of supervisors.

Commissioners William Carpenter and Paul Bernhardt dissented in the 5-2 vote. Both want to see the quarry ordinance amended.

Current codes allow only field offices in a quarry operation.

The valley's Sand and Gravel Committee voted 4-3 in late December to recommend the change.

All four excavating firms at that time voted in favor of the measure, while Pleasanton City Councilman Roger McLain, Livermore Planning Director George Musso and Bruce Fry of the county planning department were opposed. Pleasanton Planning Director Robert Harris abstained.

Opponents argued the change would predispose forthcoming reclamation plans for the 3,000 - acre quarry land.

The four gravel firms contracted with Environ, an engineering consultant firm based in San Leandro, to develop a "comprehensive reclamation plan" for the area.

The land ultimately may be used for light industry, recreation, agriculture or open space.

Rhodes-Jamieson originally proposed a site further north of the one approved Monday.

Tennis Faire moving ahead

PLEASANTON — The Pleasanton Recreation Department's Tennis Faire operation at the Fairgrounds' Young California Building is beginning to take hold.

Figures reported to the finance committee of the Alameda County Fair Board of Directors Tuesday show a deficit of $729 for the interim period of operation, Nov. 28 to Dec. 31, 1975. The four courts were used by 1,308 participants during this time.

However, during the first 12 days of January the city collected $1,317 in revenue from usage of the courts for open recreational play. According to Bob Caporusso, superintendent of recreation, the city should show a profit of $410 by month's end. This is based on a projected total expenditure of $5,390 and a projected total revenue of $5,800 — for recreational play and tennis lessons.

The revenues figure indicates $3,100 coming from tennis lessons and $1,317 for open play.

All four courts are in operation from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. daily, including Saturdays and Sundays.

During the initial interim period, the city was responsible for the planning and administering of a tennis program at the Young California Building.

"This period," according to Caporusso, "allowed the city an opportunity to publicize and promote the tennis facility and the city's tennis program without having to pay the Fair Association the monthly rent, $2,400. It also allowed the city to offer tennis groups an opportunity to participate at reduced court rates.

"At first the daily attendance was quite low," notes Caporusso. "After two weeks, due to publicity and promotional efforts, the number of participants increased steadily. Expenditures amounted to $2,531 and revenue, $1,802, showing a deficit of $729."

The Fair and city bear one-half of the deficit or $364,50 each. Under individual revenues and expenses, though, each body gains $901 in revenues and each has an expense of $129.50.

Under the reconciliation, the Fair is owed a net of $771.50 for the interim period.

The contractual period is now underway and continues through May 31, 1976.

Mental health officers named

The Valley Council of Mental Health of the Alameda County Mental Health Association has announced its nominations for council officers and members-at-large.

Dr. Donald Williams, chairman of the nominating commitee, notified the nominees by mail that they would be elected to the positions at the council's Feb. 5 meeting.

Election is a formaltiy, since the nominees have accepted already the positions and run unopposed.

Nominated for chairman to replace Clarence Hoenig is Lillian Snorf. Snorf has been active in the Senior Service Center in Livermore.

Elva Cooper was nominated for vice-chairman. She has been an at-large member of the council for the past year.

Jack Taylor was nominated for secretary.

Nominees for members-at-large include past council chairman Clarence Hoenig, Presbyterian minister Rev. John Griffes, Project AIRE drug education coordinator Dorris Fagan, counselor Richard C. Mayo, Horizons Youth Services counselor Mike Petrillo, Mary Maenchen, Jennifer Wallerstein, Carma Stallings, and Karen Pridemore.

The purpose of the committee council is "to provide thoroughgoing mental health services for the Valley," said Dr. Williams in his letter.

The council meets the first Thursday of every month at State Savings and Loan, 999 East Stanley Blvd., Livermore.

Interested citizens are invited to attend.
